The Resurrection of Jesus

The resurrection of Jesus isn't just a distant event in history. It's a turning point for all of us. When Jesus rose from the grave, He made a way for everything broken to be restored—every sin, every wound, every ounce of despair. What looked like the end of the story on Friday was only the beginning of new life on Sunday.

Romans 6:4 says, "Just as Christ was raised from the dead by the glory of the Father, we too might walk in newness of life." That "newness of life" isn't something we have to earn. It's something Jesus offers freely, even to the most wounded among us. And because of Jesus, lives are restored, marriages are healed, purpose is rediscovered and chains fall.

On this Easter morning, let's remember; this isn't just a holiday. It's the declaration of ultimate victory. It's hope for the hopeless, healing for the broken, and new life for all who believe. Because Jesus lives, we can face tomorrow — there's always a way forward. Always a second chance. Always a future worth fighting for.

The same power that raised Jesus from the dead is still at work today.

He Lives!

Behold, I am alive
for evermore.
